

The map displays a section of the Lublin voivodeship, specifically the area around the town of Jamy. A red line traces the path of a planned road reconstruction project, starting from the west and heading east towards the town. A red arrow points from a text box to this line. The map includes various geographical features such as forests (green areas with tree symbols), rivers (blue lines), and numerous settlements. The project area is highlighted by a red line that follows a route through the landscape, passing near several smaller villages and fields. The text box provides specific details about the project, including the road number and the exact location of the reconstruction work.
